assess a candidate's overall personality and suitability for the rigorous demands of military life. This crucial stage involves various tests, including:

- Officer Intelligence Rating (OIR) Test: This test evaluates verbal and non-verbal reasoning abilities, crucial for quick decision-making and problem-solving in high-pressure situations. Sample papers for this section often include practice questions on analogies, coding-decoding, series completion, and spatial reasoning.
- Picture Perception and Description Test (PPDT): This is a crucial test that assesses your observational skills, storytelling abilities, and ability to interpret ambiguous situations. Sample papers usually offer a range of pictures with accompanying example descriptions to analyze and learn from. This section heavily relies on understanding the underlying themes and emotions conveyed in the picture. Many sample papers offer guidance on improving your storytelling technique and enhancing the description's comprehensiveness.
- Word Association Test (WAT) and Thematic Apperception Test (TAT): These tests explore your unconscious thoughts and feelings, revealing your inherent personality traits. Practice using sample papers can help you improve response times and develop a consistent approach to interpretation. Many practice papers contain a vast range of images and words to enhance your preparedness for the unpredictable nature of the actual test.
